Garden to Table: Award Winning Floral Elixirs Top Holiday Gift List

Cocktail gardening is hot right now—and nothing quite beats growing your own—but for those adventurous mixologists without the time, space, or knowledge to tend a garden, there's another solution: Floral Elixirs.

These brightly-colored botanical infusions are handcrafted from the finest organic distilled essences of herbs, flowers and fruits including rose, hibiscus, lavender, elderberry, rose hips, cherry blossoms, and more. Natural plant extracts give the elixirs their colorful hues. Each small batch is hand-mixed by founder Nora Egger and carefully decanted into 8.5 oz or 2 oz bottles beautifully labeled and gold-foil sealed, making them perfect for gifting individually or as part of a basket or package.

Bottles are inscribed with mixology recommendations—which soda or spirit best complements the elixirs—and they're by no means limited to boozy concoctions. The Floral Elixir website lists recipes for incorporating the

About Nora Egger, Founder of Floral Elixir Co.

In 2008, Nora returned to the United States after living in Europe for a decade, during which she traveled extensively to more distant countries and immersed herself in the incredible foods, herbs and drinks of different cultures. From the seashores of the Mediterranean to the Balkans, the Middle East and Asia, Nora noticed that flowers played a role in creating beautiful drinks and dishes. Upon her return stateside, she wanted to revisit those experiences and create her own line of cocktail and soda mixers. She and her team craft each bottle by hand in small kettles, and there's always a bottle of seltzer and bubbles laying around for "testing!"
